

Courageous & Intentional Conversations

michiganascd.org

November 17, 2010 at Kent ISD

Time: 8:30am – 3:45pm (Registration opens at 8:00am)

Purpose

The overall purpose of this seminar is to strengthen school and district leaders' ability to plan and have intentional conversations aimed at improving professional performance, attitude, effort and results.

Description

This highly interactive seminar will highlight the importance of leaders summoning the courage and skill to address difficult, messy, and easy-to-avoid conversations with supervisors, colleagues, faculty, staff, students and community members. A connection between building a trusting culture and dealing fairly, equitably and firmly with issues of professional performance, conflict, effort and results will be stressed.

Outcomes

- To share Small Success Stories about effective feedback and hard conversations;
- To understand how providing timely, encouraging and constructive feedback now, can sometimes, lessen the need for hard, intentional conversations later;
- To understand the importance of hard, intentional conversations and the courage and integrity they require;
- To carefully plan the hard, intentional conversation by clearly identifying the real issue to be addressed;
- To observe a modeled hard, intentional conversation and analyze the major components of it; and,
- To practice planning and having intentional conversations between sessions.
